COURSE OVERVIEW

A professional course that prepares participants to deliver engaging, results-driven occupational safety and health training.

From busy shop floors to high-risk sites, organizations need trainers who turn complex regulations into clear, practical lessons. The course covers OSHA training requirements and their legal context, preparing to deliver training and the techniques for running OSHA-compliant sessions and specialized training modules.

Participants learn to evaluate trainee competency and training outcomes, keep the records compliance requires and use post-training evaluation to improve. Graduates are equipped to deliver training that motivates safe behavior every day.
