COURSE OVERVIEW

An advanced course that helps participants build workplaces where safety is a shared responsibility at every level.

Strong policies are not enough on their own; safety depends on every worker, supervisor and executive understanding their role. The course covers defining accountability within organizational systems, accountability structures across operational levels, and designing and implementing accountability systems.

Participants also cover monitoring, reporting and measurement, fair and progressive enforcement, root cause analysis and accountability assignment, communication and training, and auditing culture and continuous improvement. Graduates are equipped to build accountability that is fair, consistent and effective.
