COURSE OVERVIEW

A course in the systematic process used to assess major construction, mining, energy, infrastructure and industrial projects under NEPA in the US and equivalent laws worldwide.

You will learn the legal framework (NEPA, CEQ regulations, state equivalents and international requirements) and the full EIA process: screening, scoping, baseline studies, impact prediction, mitigation and review. The course covers Environmental Impact Statements, categorical exclusions, Environmental Assessments and FONSI.

Impacts are assessed across air, water, soil, ecology, noise, cultural, visual and socioeconomic receptors, including cumulative effects. You will apply the mitigation hierarchy of avoidance, minimization, restoration and compensation, and manage public participation from scoping meetings to responses to comments.
